WANT THE METER SYSTEM.

Action of the North Berkeley Improvement Club Last Night.

Members Will Attend the Meeting of the Trustees Tonight.

The special meeting of the North Berkeley Improvement Club last evening, called to consider the question of water rates for Berkeley resulted in the adoption of a resolution requesting Trustee Marston to use his best endeavors to secure a meter rate of twenty-five cents per thousand gallons for domestic use in Berkeley, with the minimum monthly charge of $1, and failing [illegible] adoption of a number of amendments to the present ordinance that were drafted and explained at length by Warren G. Sanborn.

The resolution was offered by Mr. Robertson and seconded by Mr. Marlaye. In effect it is as follows:

"It is the sense of the North Berkeley Improvement club that the meter is the only fair measure by which to charge for water consumed and that twenty-five cents per thousand gallons with a minimum charge of $1 per month be charged, and in case of a failure to provide water for irrigation the meter reading, to be accepted in place of a minimum rate, and the Trustee from this ward is requested to use every endeavor to bring about this result and failing this, we request him to endeavor to have adopted the amendments to the present water rate."

The amendments proposed are as follows:

In Section 1 omit in brackets the words "for baths, etc.," so that the part within the brackets will read (not including water for uses outside of houses.) We are decidedly opposed to increasing the rates in Section 1 as requested by the Alameda Water Company as the rates are already too high—much higher than in Oakland where the minimum rates are as follows: for one story, 31.2c.; two story, 46c.; three story, 57c. and in Berkeley are now for one story 75c.; two story, $1.00; three story $1.50.

Section 3a. For irrigation of lawns, gardens and grounds, (including only those parts actually irrigated) one inch of one per cent per month, payable every month in the year; provided, there has been no failure to supply all the water required for this purpose.

In Section 10 insert in the fifth line after "fire" the words "and other," so as to read "fire and other purposes," and add: "and in case of each and every failure for twenty-four hours to furnish the water required of each hydrant for street sprinkling, sewer flushing, and fire protection, the person, firm, association or corporation responsible for such failure shall forfeit to the Town of Berkeley the monthly compensation for each and every hydrant that it thus fails to keep properly supplied with water, and it is hereby made the duty of the Superintendent of Streets to report to the auditor monthly, the number of each class of hydrants that have been properly supplied with water and the class and number of times that each hydrant has failed of a proper supply of water; and the auditor shall deduct from any bill that may be due such person, firm, association or corporation the amount due the Town of Berkeley for such failure, unless in the meantime the Town of Berkeley by resolution duly passed shall have declared the same to have been excusable.

Trustee Marston was present at the meeting and it was demonstrated that the club members and their representative in the Board are in perfect harmony.

The members of the Club will attend the meeting of the Trustees tonight in a body.

GENERAL UNIVERSITY ACTIVITIES.

Prof. Sanford Opens The Series of English Lectures.

Military Lectures—Military Appointments—The Sierra Club—Notes.

Professor Sanford yesterday afternoon on "Scott and Coleridge, a comparison with reference to Objective and Subjective Modes in Literature" delivered the [illegible] lecture of the series. He said in part as follows: "With Coleridge English ceased to be purely English, but became German. Scott germanized the English language more than Coleridge by translating German romantic poetry. The Eighteenth Century revived the the romance of the Middle Ages. Walter Scott was the poet of this romantic Renaissance. Scott gave a fine picture of the Middle Ages although it is touched with modernism. Scott would not appreciate any work not romantic. It was the pomp and glory of the Middle Ages that attracted him, the external, not the internal and spiritual. He invented the historical novel and made the dead past live again.

SIERRA CLUB.

The project of the Sierra Club to establish headquarters in the Yosemite Valley will prove of immediate interest to the many students and members of the faculty who spend their summers in the sport of mountaineering. The Club Circular for Jan 31, 1898, contains the following.

"A cottage situated opposite the Guardian's Office in Yosemite Valley is to be repaired and renovated and occupied jointly by the Commission, as a bureau of information of the valley and a post office, and by the Sierra Club. The Club will have two rooms in this cottage, where its exhibit of maps, books, photographs

NO ACTION TAKEN ON THE BONDS.

Special Committee of School Directors Granted Further Time.

Other Proceedings of the Meeting Which Was Held Last Evening.

It was expected that the Board of Education would take some action last evening in regard to the bonds, but Chairman Robertson of the Bonding Committee reported that the Committee had not been able to secure all the information requisite to an adequate report and asked for further time, which was granted.

Director Engebretzen drew the attention of the Board to the fact that coal dealers had informed him that the fuel had increased in price so that they could no longer supply the department at the rate of $10.50 per ton. Superintendent Perham was instructed to interview the dealers to see what terms could be secured.

Superintendent Perham reported that the Dwight way school heating apparatus does not warm the offices, but as the contract does not call for the heating of the offices, no action was taken.

J. A. Marshal sent in a communication offering to lay a cement sidewalk, in the rear of the Dwight way school, on the south side of Haste street. The walk to be 150 feet long, five feet wide, and containing two driveways. The proposition was accepted.

Superintendent Perham filed the following report for the month ending January 28:

STUDENT VOLUNTEER MOVEMENT.

Appeal for Delegates to International Union.

The third International Convention will be held February 23 to March 2, 1898, at Cleveland, Ohio. These conventions have become famous as the largest and most powerful student gatherings of the world. Over 1500 delegates from almost every institution of higher learning in the United States and Canada are expected to be present.

These conventions come but once within the student generation. That student is to be envied who avails himself of the privilege of coming into contact with this convention which bids fair to be the most remarkable gathering ever held in the interest of the world's evangelization. Shall so large an institution as the University of California be unrepresented? Will not some one volunteer to go at his own expense? Rates will be reduced and entertainment will be free. For further information inquire of Reno Hutchinson, General Secretary of Y. M. C. A.

D. R. Wentworth the West Berkeley shoe manufacturer, is working his force day and night, but is unable to keep up with the demands made upon him by San Francisco wholesalers for Klondike shoes. The wholesalers want the Wentworth shoes because they are made of leather—nothing but leather—and good leather—and in addition the sizes run evener than any other brand on the market.

Mr. Wentworth manufactures all kinds of shoes, and sells them at retail prices far below those of San Francisco. His place of business is at 809 Delaware street, West Berkeley.

SHALL THE CITY BE BONDED?

Interviews With Citizens Regarding an Important Measure.

Suggestions and Opinions As To the Proposed New Schools.

Followings is a list of interviews and opinions which the GAZETTE is publishing daily in regard to the advisability of bonding the City for $75,000 of which amount $60,000 will be expended for the purchase of a site and the erection of a new High School building, the balance for a site and the construction of a Grammar School at North Berkeley:

D. H. Bruns—I am in favor of new school buildings when necessary, and I am not opposed to bonding ordinarily, but times are so hard at present that we can hardly afford to pay any more taxes.

C. F. Guenther—I am in favor of the proposition, which I consider an excellent one in every respect.

S. Coey—Of course I will vote in favor of the proposition and will gladly vote for it.

J. Rubens—If it is the intention of the School Directors to erect such a building as we should have I will vote aye on the measure.

C. L. Purdy—I am a new comer in Berkeley, but from what I hear and see, it is necessary for us to increase our school facilities. It is quite true that there are objectionable features to the issuance of bonds, but I see no other course, and will do my best to make the bonds carry.

G. T. Morrill—It is an excellent measure and deserves to be carried. If the people of Berkeley fail to issue the bonds, they will show themselves in very unfavorable light.

A BOARD OF TRADE.

The need of a Board of Trade and an information bureau are so evident that it is the duty of the progressive citizens of Berkeley to take immediate action. There are many matters affecting the community which require organization and enterprise to deal with properly. Just at present there are two matters which are of vital importance and of which the people should have a knowledge which will enable them to think and act intelligently on. We refer to the School bond and Water questions. On each of these matters a campaign of education should be instituted, and waged with unflagging energy. Then, it matters not what the outcome be, the people will have the consciousness that they acted wisely; that what they have done, has been done for the best.

Of course the above are only two of a multiplicity of matters. There are always many things of a public nature which require consideration and action; things that are not within the province of the Town authorities and which if not heeded, invariably cause a loss to the community. It is the function of Boards of Trade to consider these matters.

Berkeley has had Boards of Trade, or similar organizations in past years, but in each case they failed of their purpose for reasons which is not necessary to dwell on here suffice it to say that the failures furnish us with lessons which should not be unheeded. In the first place the new Board of Trade should be representative of the entire city, and the members should not be actuated by motives of private gain. To make the organization thoroughly representative, the members should be selected from the various improvement clubs, though of course, East Berkeley which has no such organization should also be represented.

As for the need of a bureau of information there is a continual stream of inquires pouring into Berkeley, regarding our business manufacturing, residence and school facilities. These inquiries falling into the hands of private citizens are for the most part unheeded, entirely or else answered in a perfunctory manner, consequently prospective investors and residents turn their attention elsewhere. A bureau for information conducted by a Board of Trade would be of incalculable benefit to us, and one should be established without further delay.

WANTS IT "SETTLED."

The editor of the Small Boy's Own lisps in his cute little childish accents that the Kellner "matter is settled." He is anxious to have no more said. Of course he is. When anyone is caught in an endeavor to conceal his incapacity and dullness by making an attack on others, he is always willing and anxious to have "the matter settled."

In his general "backdown" the small boy editor says something about old fashioned journalism. What does he know about old fashioned or modern journalism, anyhow? He certainly isn't qualified to express an opinion on the matter.

NO MORE FAMINE.

The action taken by the North Berkeley Improvement Club last night in regard to the Water question is representative of the sense of the entire community. The people are convinced that the solution of the problem lies in the use of meters and as the Trustees are of the same opinion, there is every reason to believe that if the Company puts the meters in—and we believe it will—that until we make other arrangements, there will be no danger of another water famine.

"How long do you really think it will take to end this war?" inquired the Spanish general's friend.

"To be candid," was the reply, "that is not the question uppermost in my mind. What I desire is to know how long I will be able to keep it from being ended."

The Finest Map of California Ever Pubished.
Have you seen the finest map of California ever published? If not call at the GAZETTE office and examine it. You can obtain this map absolutely free by paying one year's subscription to the GAZETTE in advance.
The maps are made in two styles mounted for hanging upon the wall, and in pocket form. Every household should have one of these perfect maps.
You can get a mounted map free of charge by paying one year's subscription, $3.00, in advance; if you want a map and do not care to pay a year in advance for the GAZETTE you can obtain the mounted wall map and one month's subscription for seventy-five cents payable in advance, thus giving you the map for 50 cents; if the pocket map be preferred, it may be obtained for sixty-cents, including a month's subscription to the Gazette.
Old subscribers may obtain a mounted map for sixty-cents or a pocket map for thirty-five cents, by showing their receipt for last month's subscription.
Non-subscribers—what few there are in Berkeley—may obtain the wall map for $1.00 or the pocket map for fifty cents.
If you are interested in these propositions drop a postal card to the Gazette and an agent will call at your address and show the maps.

FRENCH SUSPICION.

IT HAS PLAYED AN IMPORTANT PART IN THE COUNTRY'S HISTORY.

In France the Element of Suspicion Has Reached the Preternatural and Is No New Thing—How It Influenced the Actions of Robespierre.

At all the great crises of French life the element of preternatural suspicion has played an important part. Like some mischievous Puck it hovers over the land, whispering doubts here, misgivings there, converting the whole nation into mouchards, whose business it is to set a watch on their neighbors day and night. We have such a profound admiration for many qualities of the French people, such a sincere belief in the necessity of a powerful French factor in the complex mesh of modern civilization, that we can afford to bring this charge of undue suspicion against France as a whole. No student of French history can fail to see the confusion it has wrought. It is not the growth of yesterday, but it is almost as evident in the memoirs of the France of the seventeenth century as on the Paris boulevards at the present moment.

It pervaded the court and the official classes in the time of Richelieu, it was constantly present in the mind of Mazarin when negotiating with Cromwell, and it is visible all through the pages of the memoirs of De Retz. This spirit of preternatural suspicion naturally attained its climax in the French revolution, when, for the first time, the monarchy was involved in its infinite entanglements.

From the moment when the national assembly met at Versailles to the day when Napoleon was banished to Elba universal suspicion filled the air and dictated the cruel aspect of French policy. The queen was, of course, suspected, and justly, in political matters, and perhaps it will not be altogether unreasonable that the suspicion in which she was enveloped should have attached to her weak but perfectly honest husband, who was assumed to be absolutely under her fatal influence.

The attack on the Bastille was animated not merely by memories of the past, not in the least because of actual cruelties at the time, for there was none, but mainly because it was suspected that the Bastille was to be utilized as an armed fortress to overawe Paris. The day of the "black cockades" and the march of the Maenads (to use Carlyle's graphic phraseology) were due to excited suspicion. The assembly had scarcely organized itself before the demon of suspicion spread its dusky wings over that body, and Mirabeau and Barnave, at first popular idols, became suspected of intrigue with the court. The vigorous personalities who came to the front all suspected one another. To them the famous warning which Benjamin Franklin addressed to the founders of the American republic, "Gentlemen, we must hang together or we shall hang separately," would have been useless. They could not hang together, and they did hang, or were guillotined, separately. It was Danton's suspicion of an aristocratic plot which caused the September massacres. It was pure suspicion that created the most revolting and unjust of all the revolutionary excesses, the tribunal of Fouquier-Tinville. Danton in his turn was suspected and fell.

We may, of course, justify the suspicion of Dumouriez, but what possible explanation can be given of the suspicion of the harmless astronomer Bailly, with his precisian virtues, who paid with his head for the dangerous folly of meddling with things he did not understand? It was obviously a question of war to the knife between Jacobin and Girondin, for each took an absolutely different view of both foreign and internal politics; but why could not the struggle have been confined to party warfare within the walls of the convention? Why was it necessary to decimate the Girondin chiefs? The only answer that can be made is that suspicion had grown to such a pitch that the very existence of Girondism was considered incompatible with the security of the republic. Men had become frenzied, insane, through constant spying on one another's actions and perpetual attempts to fathom one another's inward thoughts, and the "law of suspects" was simply a formal expression of national craziness. That way madness lies.

In the person of Robespierre preternatural suspicion attained its most complete incarnation. His feline nature was ever on the dart for its prey. He could not hear a good word said of any man but he instantly began to revolve in his mind the question as to whether there were not some concealed motive in the praise. The shout of triumphant relief which reverberated over France when Robespierre's head fell into the basket marked the break of the straining point of that suspicion which had created and sustained the terror. When we remember that but for an accident Carnot would have fallen a victim to Robespierre's suspicions and that this suspicious disposition had led a man of sentimental virtue to become a wholesale murderer, we can understand that feeling of relief.—London Spectator.

Eugene Sue's Pranks.

The father of Eugene Sue was a physician with exalted patients all over Europe, who sent him the choicest wines. The emperor of Austria, for instance, had contributed tokay, the king of Prussia rare hock, Queen Christina of Spain priceless alicante, Prince Metternich genuine cachet d'or, and so on. The whole was kept in a large iron cupboard in the study of the learned physician, known as the Elzevir library. Eugene was then a college freshman, and, having procured a skeleton key to the closet, with his friends, Adolphe, Adam, Veron and others, proceeded every night to investigate the contents of the bottles. Not wishing to have their explorations prematurely stopped, they took the precaution to fill up the partially exhausted flasks with water and then to reseal them. When, for a long time afterward, the doctor brought forth samples of his precious stock for the delectation of guests worthy of it, and the company tasted it with a due sense of awe, it was privately felt that the celebrity of these great brands was all moonshine, that ordinary table d'hote bordeaux was preferable to them. But nobody dared to say so, and it was only after the death of his dreaded parent that the novelist confessed the sacrilege.

THE EXCITABLE FRENCH.

Scene In the Chamber of Deputies With the Members Enraged.

Upon arriving at the anteroom of the chamber of deputies, says Colonel T. W. Higginson in The Atlantic, I found the hall full of people waiting, each having to send his card to some member, naming on it the precise hour of arrival. The member usually appeared promptly, when an immense usher called in a stentorian voice for "La personne qui a fait demander M. Constant"—or whoever it might be. Then the constituent—for such it usually was—advanced toward the smiling member, who never looked bored, the mask of hospitality being probably the same in this respect throughout the legislative halls of the world. At last M. Tolain dier appeared and got me a place among the corps diplomatique. The chamber itself was more like our representatives' hall at Washington than like the house of commons. The members had little locked desks, and some were writing letters, like our representatives, though I saw no newspapers.

The ordinary amount of noise was like that in our congress, though there was happily no clapping of hands for pages, but when the members became especially excited, which indeed happened very often, it became like a cage of lions. For instance, I entered just as somebody had questioned the minister of war, General Borel, about an alleged interference with elections, and his defiant reply had enraged the Lefts, or radicals, who constituted the majority of the assembly. They shouted and gesticulated, throwing up their arms and then slapping them on their knees very angrily, until the president rang his great bell, and they quieted down lest he might put on his hat and adjourn the meeting. In each case the member speaking took his stand in the desk or tribune below the president, and the speeches were sometimes read, sometimes given without notes.

The minister, a stolid, red-faced man—always, the radicals say, half intoxicated—stood with folded arms and looked ready for a coup d'etat, yet I heard it said about me that he would be compelled either to retreat or resign. One saw at a glance how much profounder political differences must be in France than with us.

Married on Thirty Minutes' Courtship.

"You may talk about your brief courtships and marriages on short notice," said Captain Arm Cardwell once, "but I think I once witnessed the quickest made match on record. I was running as a conductor between Russellville and Owensboro, as I did for many years, and on a trip in the winter of 1881 I got a pretty country girl passenger at a little flag station south of Central City about 6:45 a. m. A few miles farther on at another small station a big strapping looking farmer, dressed in brown jeans, with his trousers tucked in his tall boots, got on my train. The fellow hadn't opened the car door till he spied the rustic lass, and before he took his seat in front of the girl he had smiled at her.

"I punched his ticket, went in the smoking car, and on my return to the regular passenger coach found the Green river tiller of the soil sitting in the same seat with the maiden, chatting with her as if he had known her since birth. In 25 minutes after they had first met the fellow called me to him and said: 'Say here, podner, we want to get hitched. I hain't knowed Mirinda Jane here but 30 minutes, but we both like, an she's willin an so'm I. Whur's the nighest parson, podner?' I took them on to Owensboro, and the happy bridegroom and his blushing other half were passengers back on my train that afternoon. For hurry up nuptials it does strike me that these ought to have the cake and other special prizes offered for quick yeast love matches."—Louisville Post.

Conclusive.

A doctor on tour through the highlands came upon a fair sized village where there was no brother practitioner. Surprised at this and anxious to learn how the people got on without one, he took the first opportunity to inquire

"A doctor!" said the old woman whom he accosted. "We need nae doctor."

"And what do you do for medicine in the case of illness?" pursued the man of medicine.

"We need nae medicine either. We just keep whusky for the man an tar for the sheep," replied the old woman.

The doctor admitted that a glass of whisky might be good enough in some cases, but not always.

"A weel," readily responded the old woman, "if ae glass disna dae we gie twa, and if twa disna dae we mak it three, and if that disna dae they were gaun tae dee onyway."—Scottish Nights.

Suspicion.

"Do you remember that girl who came here and said that what she most desired was a good home?" asked the housewife.

"What is the matter now?" responded her husband. "Have you missed something else?"

"Yes. I guess she has a good home pretty nearly paid for by this time."—Washington Star.

We'll fix it for you.

The GAZETTE wants to have the business men of Berkeley in the front rank in every respect. They are a pretty bright and clever class now, but there is always room for improvement.
Now we are going to show our interest in a practical manner

The "Gazette" has a number of Certificates

Each calling for a six months' course in a well-known and first-class Business College. It is well known that a six months' course is worth $75, which is a lot of money nowadays. Nevertheless, we can help you if you are willing to help yourself.

Here is the way to secure a Certificate

OPEN FROM 2 TO 10:30 P. M.

The 50th anniversary of the discovery of gold in California will be not only fittingly celebrated by its Golden Jubilee, but by one of the grandest and most complete exhibitions of mining and outfitting ever seen in the world. This Fair will possess the merits of originality, instructive and practical features.

There will be a mammoth pictorial and genuine representation of a hydraulic mine in operation; every modern piece of machinery used in all forms of mining in operation; complete display of ores, minerals, and soil formations, and many novel mining experimental features shown for the first time at this Mining Fair.

The natural resources of California will be shown in the big exhibit of the State Board of Trade; and many official and private collections and exhibits of ores and minerals will give added interest to this wonderful Exposition.

The history of our State will be fittingly and graphically outlined by exhibits of relics, curios, photographs, paintings, books, papers, etc., all kindly loaned by societies and individuals. This feature of the Fair is worth special attention, and the management solicits other loans, where possible. The exhibit of the State Mining Board will also prove interesting.

The Klondike Outfitting Department possesses interest beyond the ordinary, for the majority of food products, evaporated fruits, vegetables, and the clothing, cooking utensils, means of transportation, etc., of miners' outfits as shown, are of California, and the moneys expended therefore remain not alone among our manufacturers and artisans, but aid and benefit the farmer and fruit grower. One half of the main floor is given over to this department.

The attractions besides those named are splendid band concerts, both afternoons and evenings; Klondike cooking lectures, free exhibition daily of Edison's Projectoscope, and new animated pictures illustrating Pacific Coast scenes, European views, Eastern moving pictures, Klondike scenes, comical views, with lectures; a Klondike wedding, Cornish miners' wrestling matches, rock drill contests, international cake walks, baby shows, opening civic reception, living pictures, trips through the great underground tunnel, shaft and ore chambers, nationality days, school children's programs, State Press Association day, interior excursion days, in fact the special features and attractions will be new, novel, well carried out, and on a magnificent scale throughout.

The admission has been wisely fixed at the reasonable price of 25 cents; children, 15 cents; and the railways will make special excursion rates. These can be obtained by applying to your station agent. The various counties will make creditable exhibits, and every man, woman, and child in California has an interest in making this Mining Fair a success. The hotels in San Francisco will make specially low Fair rates, and these can be obtained by writing to the Hotel Committee, 31 Post street, also a list of hotels and boarding houses.

Don't forget the dates—Jan. 24th to 28th for Golden Jubilee Celebration and Jan. 29th to March 6th for Mining Fair.

Office, 31 POST STREET, San Francisco.

BEACON FIRE COMPANY.

Arrangements for New Tower Progressing.

The Beacon Fire Company met in regular session last evening. The committee on tower reported that everything was proceeding smoothly. There had been some changes and modifications in the original plans, but they were decided improvements.

The Committee on Ladies Annex reported that branch in a flourishing condition.

Mrs. C. Hadlen of West Berkeley, who has been seriously ill for some time, had a relapse today.

Boxing in Oakland.

The Reliance Club has signed several brace of boxers for the next gentlemen's night at the club which has been fixed for February 15th. The principal events will be between Marty McCue and Yank Savage, Young Sharkey and Billy Gifford and F. Condon and J. McMahon. It is expected that the McCue-Savage encounter will be a particularly good one, as the men are both clever and evenly matched.

A Lengthy Parsnip.

Anthony P. Morris, the South Berkeley litteratuer, combines fancy gardening with novel writing. Yesterday he pulled from his garden a parsnip over three-fourths of a yard in length.

SAYS HE WAS NOT DEFEATED.

Drum Denies He Is a Victim of "Brown's" Prowess.

EDITOR GAZETTE: Dear Sir. An article appeared in your paper on February 7, to the effect that Brown the sprinter who is supposed to hail from Australia, had added Drum to his list of American victories. I desire this statement to be corrected as it is absolutely false, for Drum has not run any race whatever with this professional who appears under a a different name every day. The only connection that Drum had with this man, is that he happened to be on the Track the same time with him, and trotted down the stretch by his side. Because Drum did not happen to be on even terms when this man desired to stop is an exceedingly poor excuse for a victory over Drum, which victory I desire to inform him, he is physically unable to accomplish.
